NINETEEN FIFTY ONE

RALPH H. SHAWHAN

The 1951

PATROON

Rhinebeck Central School
Rhinebeck, New York

Dedication

William E. Sewell

We wish to dedicate this, our third issue of the "Patroon," to William Sewell, assistant principal, science teacher and general good-will ambassador between students and teachers. We thank you, "Uncle Bill," for helping us plan our school programs so as to derive the most benefit from them, for enlightening us on some of the mysteries of science, even for "chastizing" us when we broke the rules, but most of all we thank you for being available whenever we needed a friend and advisor.

Year Book Editors

Foreword

Realizing that soon we must venture into the world and leave behind our care-free, happy school-days, we have taken one last fling at frivolity and chosen for our yearbook theme "jalopies." We feel that this is a symbol of youth recognized by all 'teen-agers and one which is reminiscent of countless excursions and adventures. Perhaps you too, will share with us memories of some delightful experiences as you browse through our annual publication of the "Patroon."

CLEO E. FICKE

Class Advisor

Senior History

Four years ago, we, the Seniors of '51, were the "Green Freshmen" of '47. We boldly crossed the threshold of "Ye Olde R. H. S.," thinking that at last we were "big shots." However, we were rudely shaken from our ethereal pedestal by the majestic upper classmen.

Do you remember our Science Class expedition to the Hayden Planetarium and the Museum of Natural History? It was on this memorable occasion that Doris Bowman was hilariously initiated into the confusion of the "Big City."

Our sophomore year was heralded by our Christmas Dance, "The Sophomore Space Dance." Do you remember the excitement with which Jay Sellers "accidentally" nailed to the shining surface of the gym floor?

Also, it is impossible to forget our own talented Gerry Murphy in the minstrel show. The "oomph" and style, which he put into his song and dance routine, brought down the house with laughter and applause.

One year later, we achieved "Jolly Junior-hood" during which we proudly presented our unforgettable Junior Prom. Two of our Juniors, Ronnie Post and Peggy DeLamater, copped the honors and were crowned "King and Queen." It was many days before the "King" could shake off the label "Pretty Boy" which Mr. Cullen had bestowed on him.

In Feb. of this same year, we attained our long awaited class rings. We displayed these shining school emblems with pride.

At last we reached the goal for which we had been struggling these many years. This year we, "The Royal Seniors," had much to look forward to.

After three preceding years of unsuccessful attempts, we finally became masters in the art of selling. A steady income was derived from candy, soda, food and shirt sales. What about B. J. Dalmer's unique costumes and routines, which he produced for advertisement's sake? He certainly was the focus of attention! And don't forget The Count of Monte Cristo and Guadalcanal Diary which starred in our two successful movie-dances.

The G. O. presidential campaign was battled out by Richard "Moe" Siebold, Gerry Murphy and Ronnie Post. Not only the students but also the town was aroused as Gerry's loyal party formed a parade and rode around town with banners flying. After the votes were counted, it was found that a revote was necessary between "Moe" and Gerry. "Moe" won the election, and the other nominees gave a party in the honor of the new president.

The Senior Play entitled Junior Mister starred "Harold Hastings," alias Gerry Murphy, who wrote a play about "Frances Price's" family, whom he considered "characters." His many predicaments were reasons for much mirth. "Frances," the "character," played by Margie Rogers, helped to reform Harold by using psychology. She successfully "snatched" him from the clutches of "Gloria," better known as Joan Sindt.

Although we worried about our financial status, "Lady Luck" was with us, and in March, we took our much dreamed about trip to Washington, D. C. This was one of the greatest highlights of our senior year.

In June, 1951, we reached the end of a long, hard journey. We proudly accepted our diplomas, realizing that the hardest row was yet to come—the job of putting our education to practical use and proving ourselves worthwhile citizens.

Class Will

We, the Seniors of the class of 1951, being of questionably sound mind, do hereby make, publish and declare this, our last will and testament and do give, and bequeath all our effects and defects both real and personal as follows:

We leave Barbara White Bill Asher's argumentive abilities.

B. J.'s dramatic talent to Anne Kaufman.

Doris Bowman's spontaneous giggles to Shirley Bonesteel.

To Pat Wheeler, Peggy DeLamater's quick temper.

Joan Galunas' typing ability to Charles Forsman.

The outstanding and numerous possessions of Don Goodrich, we leave to Bill Lown.

Pat Hart's untamed locks to Sandy Tremper.

Walt Jautz's faculty "drag" to Ann Strickel.

To Ginny Rifenburg and Rosemary Briggs, Bea Merrihew's athletic ability.

Carl Johnson's "uppers" to Ginny Ross.

Jerry Murphy's innumerable talents to Margie Goodrich.

Bucky Odell's repertoire of jokes to Eleanor Justus.

Mary Smith's petite figure to Mary Jane Kilmer.

To Jim Rosell and Stan Colton, Dick Hicks' frequent blushes.

Joan Sindt's "specks" to Ruth Ackert.

We leave Howie Traudt's basketball skill to Jonathan Murray.

To Ed Gray and Ann Conklin, Frank Dezago's garrulousness.

Walt Welch's muscle-bound physique to Tom McCabe and Carl Harrison.

Walt Williams' history marks to Ed Glynn.

Ed Gumenny's love of minstrel shows to Bernie Lattin and Gordie Briggs.

Margie Rogers' height to Pat Rosell.

Jo Simmons leaves her quiet ways to Dorie Ann Stone and Don Harrison.

Dick Siebold's mathematical mind to Ray De Molin and Marlene Dorrer.

Ronnie Post's "crewcial" cut to "Satch" Gazen.

"Sissy" Simmons' copper-colored hair to Bill Holden so that next year's Seniors won't be without a red head.

Dick Thorn's dancing feet to Sally Asher.

To Paul Johnson, Ed Rossman's extra weight.

John McCarney's way with the women to Stanley Ward.

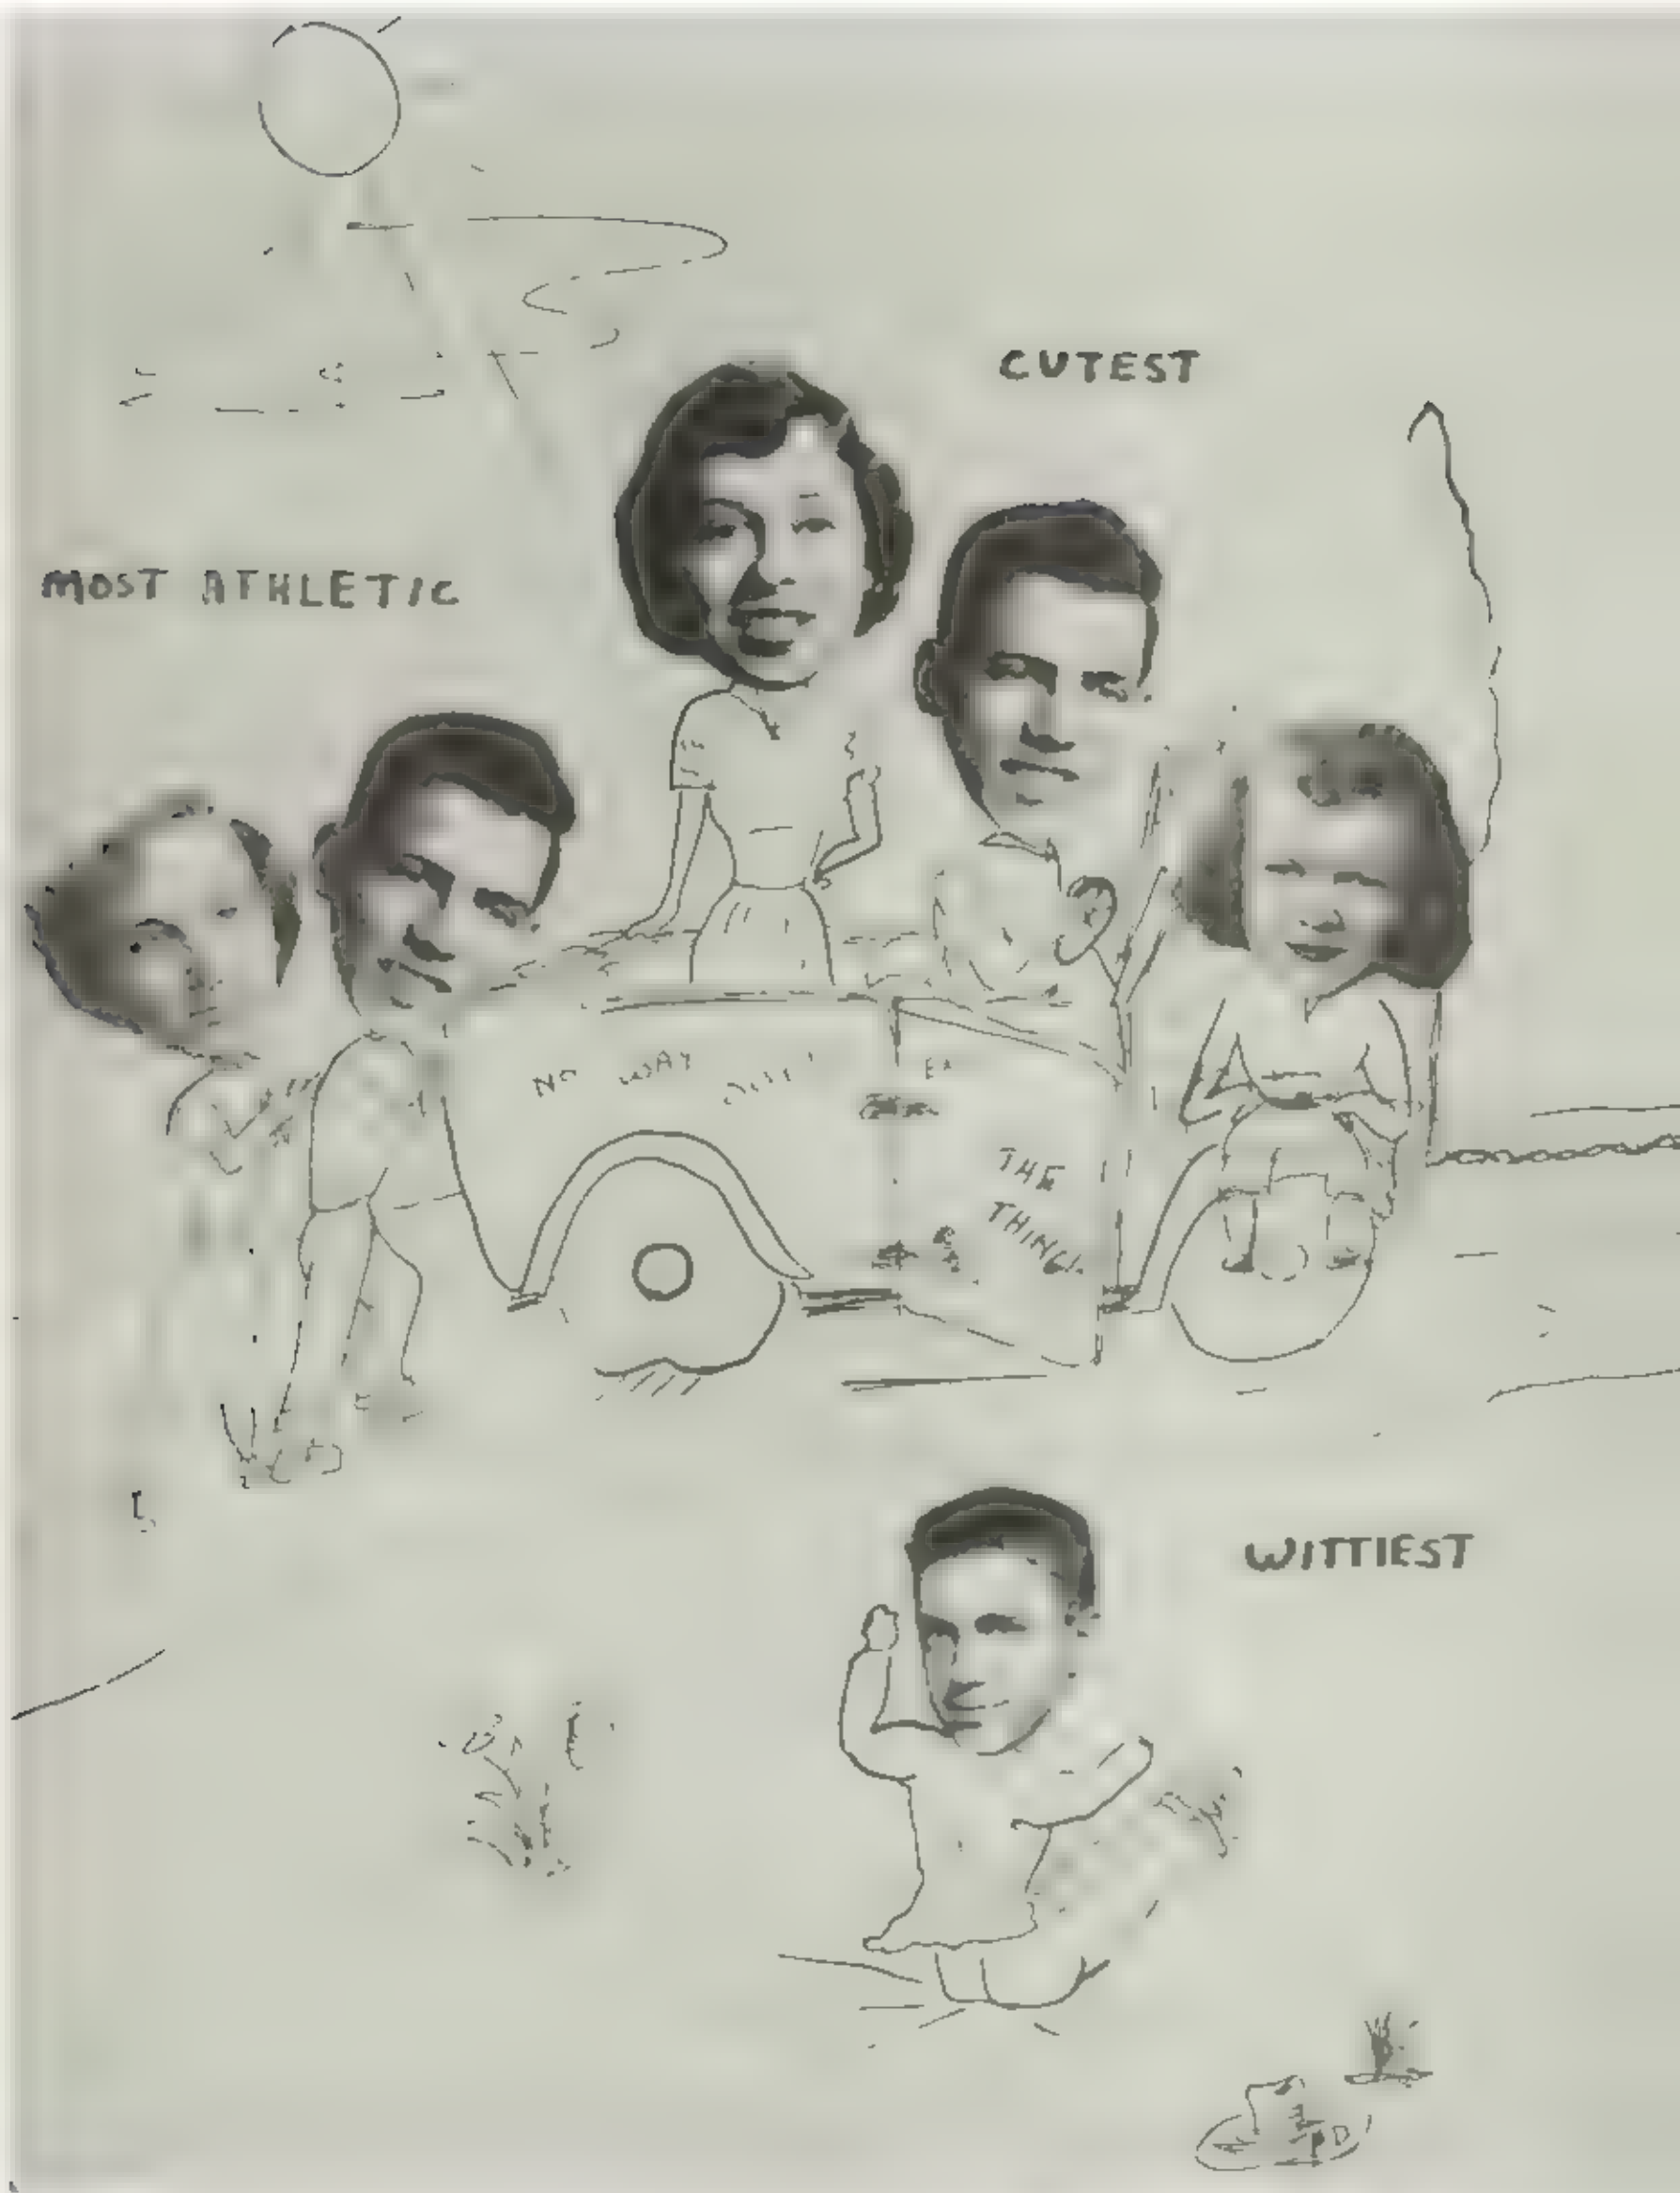

To the faculty we leave . . . it isn't much, but we leave and you should be thankful.

Put on the binders! Clear the track! The Green flag has just been dropped on the "Class of 1952."

Wait a minute, we don't need anyone to clear the track for us, we do it the hard way, around the outside of the track like the champions do.

Speaking of champs, we have some. The boys of our class help to make up the Junior Varsity and Varsity basketball squads. Mighty fine players, those fellows. They wouldn't be so fine if they didn't have the school spirit that is aroused by the cheerleaders, some of whom are Juniors.

Our "Junior Quickie," "Overall Hop" and Prom had record breaking crowds. The payoffs weren't very large but the people went away content with the evening's events.

Food sales were more popular than ever before this year, so the Juniors put their hands in the cake too. The results? A few pennies and headaches for the treasurer.

If you ever meet any talent scouts around here, tell them about the talent our class has. They are sure to find a star. We have dancers, singers, actors—any number of talents.

At last the checkered flag has been dropped on the school term of 1951. We had fun winning the races against our fellow classmates. Say, who did win anyway?

Sophomores

This year's "Silly Sophomores" have made headlines that we will all remember. Of course, school can be a little difficult—teachers, you know—but all in all we've had a lot of fun this year.

Those delicious food sales—remember "Jerry" Dalmer's cake—and dances including the "Spring Swing" which featured Mac's Ramblers, netted our class some much needed funds. Who can forget those snazzy "Jayvee" basketball players and the cheerleaders who cheered them on, many of whom came from our esteemed class. Just think of all the fun we had, but then who wouldn't with the "other Halves" of R.C.S.'s most famous couples in his class? Yes sir, add it all up and what have you got—a swell class with lots of pep and a bright future!

The marvelous class of '54
 Has trooped right thru the high school door
 We'll try and try 'till we succeed
 And no doubt someday we'll be in the lead!

You may think we're green but we're really not. Didn't we —Win first prize at the square dance contest?
 —Make a good profit on our first food sale?
 —Get a high per cent of G. O. members?
 —Keep 'em guessing at what was in the big box at the Freshman Thing?

Would our class be the same if—
 Donna I. was sorry for her classes
 Dick F. forgot some of his innumerable questions.
 Pat S. and Marcella C. stopped arguing with the teachers
 Mike, Myron and Barry E. lost their sense of humor
 Mr. Knapp ran out of those 6 page algebra problems
 Arnold P. got serious

Music Notes

The music department started the school year off full of enthusiasm. The students had a great deal of work ahead of them and accomplished it well.

The band was invited to play for the teachers' convention held in Albany on October 20. They did an excellent job and received many compliments which boosted the morale of the group.

The band and orchestra presented their annual fall concert on December 4. The performance was well received by an audience of about 125. Soloists who attended the 1950 State Competition Contest were awarded medals at this concert. Those who received medals were: Irene Stone, playing grade 6 music and receiving a I rating; Eddie Sheak, grade 5, I rating; Dorie Ann Stone, grade 3, I rating; Pat Hart, grade 2, II rating; Dave Murray, grade 2, II rating; Sally Merryweather, grade 1, II rating; Sandra Tremper, grade 3, II rating; Rosellen Ackert, grade 3, II rating; Joan Sindt, grade 5, II rating; Ann Stickle, grade 5, II rating; Ann Kaufmann, grade 5, II rating. The band and orchestra presented an outstanding spring concert.

The mixed chorus and varsity choir presented their annual Christmas concert December 19th. A fine spring concert was also given by these groups.

The varsity choir, orchestra, band and several soloists and ensembles entered the State Competition Contest on May 4 and 5, 1951.

After many postponements, the date of "Junior Mister" was finally set for March 16, 1951. Being pressed for time, we immediately began rehearsals. These provided excellent excuses for going out on school nights and neglecting homework. They also provided opportunities for clowning. Take, for instance, the time someone accidentally dropped a milkbottle backstage and then told Mrs. Ficke that "B. J." had broken his glasses. Remember those often-rehearsed love scenes between "B. J." and "Margie" which never failed to interest the whole cast? Only "Art for Art's sake" of course! ! !

Rehearsals were not the only excuses we found to "get out of" school-work, for there were those four-hundred or so programs to be planned, printed, cut, stapled, and painted which, of course took a considerable amount of time. Even though we enjoyed doing all this, we were quite grievous at the thought of missing our cherished classes! ? !

Inevitably, the big night arrived. There was much counting of the people in the audience, last-minute line studying, primping, and protesting directed at our two make-up artists, Mrs. Ficke and Mr. Bainbridge. Surprisingly enough, things ran smoothly except for a few minor upsets including the time "Gloria" forgot her line and, thinking it was "Miss Hamilton's" was not the least bit abashed by the frantic prompters giving her her line. The result was that no one said anything for what seemed like hours. Another "slip-up" which received one of the biggest laughs of the show was "Frances'" "But Jerry—" instead of using his stage name!

As the final curtain descended, we heaved a sigh of relief but already felt pangs of sadness. We were ready to begin all over again! However, not the same night, for we were all pretty worn out from nervousness and the great emotional strain of our unparalleled acting! ? And so we departed—tired, happy, and financially secure

The Senior Trip

It was a sleepy-eyed Senior Class that left for Washington about six-thirty A. M. Wednesday, March twenty-first. However, as the day brightened, so did most of the voyagers.

We arrived in "The Nation's Capital" at five-thirty ready and rarin' to go. After unpacking and changing our clothes we started out in various directions to find places to eat and discuss plans for the evening.

The next few days were spent on sightseeing and various interesting explorations (both inside and outside of the hotel).

Items for Remembrance—The seemingly "mile-long" hike up the Washington Monument which we bravely undertook! The entertainment provided by a group of small Negro boys who fought for the pennies we pitched (some of which landed on the roof below us and were retrieved by our fellow students—Guimmy and Jautz) "Are you a sailor?" (shouted, of course, at a soldier) which was begun by our own Doris "Bulldog" Bowman and lasted throughout the trip. The laughs which resulted when Mrs. Shawhan unexpectedly dropped in on room 503. "Frank—quick—get under the bed! !" The eventful night which ended in a "slop-fight" between the "young ladies" in rooms 503 and 504 and the resulting involuntary migration of Mickey to room 503. The poker games on the second floor which lasted until the "wee" hours of the morning. We understand they drained many bottles too—Coke, of course! ! The acquaintances we made and the fun we had with the kids from O-hee-o. Remember "1, 2, 3 Sleep" and Paul, the boy who got sick on milk? The pail we left in front of the hotel, the honeymoon couple who wanted quiet, Posty's reluctance to go to bed, Bill Asher's fashionable efflorescent necktie, the midnight struggles with wild men, the sober attitude of Richard Hicks, the friendly and sometimes crooked porters, Joan G.'s illness and her faithful visitors, the trouble we gave the House Detective—he sure got mad. "Y'all bettah quiet down in theah!", the fun we had on the way home in the bus and the fake nose and glasses which B. J. bought.

We finally arrived home on Monday about two-thirty A. M. half asleep, slightly bewildered, extremely weary but definitely willing to begin all over again.

Junior Prom

The "Class of '51," after much of the usual planning and consideration, began to decorate the gym for its Junior Prom. Some of the Juniors were excused from their classes and others "regretfully" skipped them in order to help in this great affair.

I can readily recall a few of the incidents which we encountered in our hearty attempts to outdo all other proms. Remember the long, round, flat and other mediums of rocks which we made from paper maché and painted? We were smeared from head to foot with paint and paste, and were forced to take a considerable amount of teasing from both students and faculty.

We spent much of our time collecting the necessary "props" and eagerly hunted for flowers of all varieties. Someone actually brought back a mass of dogwood which we quickly hid from the eyes of the "authorities." We more hesitantly solicited the various funeral homes for their much needed artificial grass and flower baskets.

We worked feverishly all day, until the time came to stand back and view our handiwork. Then we realized that our efforts were well rewarded. Our "trysting place" of green forestry was enchantingly equipped with a galant loveseat standing beside a bubbling brook. In the center of the gym stood "Ye Olde Wishing Well." The flowers, securely tied in their baskets, were generously placed about the room and their enticing aroma added to the theme of "gaiety, youth, and romance."

At last the great moment arrived. On stage was the "Paramount Orchestra," playing to the couples dancing in an ever-changing atmosphere of colors.

Towards the end of the evening, the "King and Queen of the Prom" were chosen. Two of our Juniors, Peggy DeLamater and Ronnie Post, won these titles. They were formally crowned by Mr. Bainbridge and congratulated by their friends. Dancing was then continued until 1:00 a. m. when everyone, although tired and footsore, regretfully left for home after a night of dancing enjoyment.

Basketball

Rhinebeck Central School's basketball team copped fourth place in the Hudson Valley Section of the Dutchess County Scholastic League. It had a record of seven wins and five losses.

Rhinebeck was led by its captain, John McCarney, a steady player throughout the season. Stan Colton provided the point power and scored forty-nine points in one game, the highest in the league. Jim Rosell, who was lost to the team mid-way through the season, did a good job on rebounds and was second high in the scoring. Dick Siebold played a steady defensive position during the season. Bob Asher proved to be a good man on rebounds and made some timely baskets. Paul Johnson, who started the season on the Jayvees, was brought up to the varsity to take Rosell's place and showed a great job in the pivot.

The Rhinebeck Jayvees had a good season with a record of eight wins and five losses. Paul Johnson started the season as center but finished the season on the varsity. Bob Eggleston was high scorer and did a good job on the rebounds. John Fraleigh, the captain of the Jayvees, was the playmaker of the team and Bill Lown was an excellent all-around player.

Trophy Winner

Last June, Susan Hildreth was a major winner and star of the Roosevelt Horse Show held on the grounds of Roosevelt High School at Hyde Park. She carried off four blue ribbons, a trophy for herself and the interscholastic trophy for Rhinebeck Central School.

Sue placed first in the class for maiden horsemanship for the children under fourteen who had never won a blue ribbon, first in open horsemanship for children under fourteen, and first in the interscholastic competition, bringing the interscholastic trophy to Rhinebeck for the second time.

In the class for bridal path hacks, Sue rode "Mustard" and placed second. On the same mount Sue took third in the class for English local pleasure horse for people who don't ordinarily show their horses. She rode "Black Cat" to a fifth place in the hunter type hacks class.

Rhinebeck Central School is proud of Sue and the many other students who competed at Roosevelt. Here's to continued success!

Baseball

The baseball team of 1950 coached by Henry Hildreth boasted a good record of seven victories and two defeats.

At the campaign's end, Rhinebeck and Pine Plains, tied for first place, entered in a playoff which Pine Plains copped with a five to two victory played at the Red Hook field.

Tom Pottenburgh and Paul Johnson shared the pitching honors. "Big Tom" started the season with a no-hitter against Staatsburg.

The players who won Varsity letters were Robert Fraleigh, William Holden, Tom Mann, John McCarney, Tom Pottenburgh, Ronald Post, Howard Traudt, Hank Schaad, Eddie Sheak, Richard Siebold, Walter Welch and Paul Johnson.

This year's losses to the team are R. Fraleigh, T. Pottenburgh, H. Schaad, E. Sheak and T. Mann.
